

down syndrome iq average

AI generated article from Bing

What Is the Average IQ of a Person With Down Syndrome?

The average IQ score cited for young adults with Down syndrome is approximately 50, placing them within the moderate intellectual disability range. A score between 50 and 69 is classified as mild intellectual disability, while 35 to 50 is considered moderate.

Are There Intelligent People with Down Syndrome? - ACHIVX

The average IQ score for individuals with Down syndrome falls around 50, ranging from approximately 30 to 70. However, this is an average; it's crucial to understand the considerable variability in cognitive abilities within this population.

Down Syndrome (Trisomy 21) - The Merck Manuals

The intelligence quotient (IQ) among children with Down syndrome varies but averages about 50, compared with children in the general population, whose average IQ is 100.

Average IQ of Someone With Down Syndrome - IQExam

The average IQ of individuals with Down Syndrome is about 50, which is below the normal range of the IQ for a normal person. This number can vary between 30 and 70, which is still very low.

Down Syndrome IQ: Understanding Cognitive Abilities and Intellectual ...

Typically, individuals with Down syndrome have IQ scores that fall within the mild to moderate range of intellectual disability. But here's where it gets interesting: these scores can vary widely, ranging from as low as 20 to as high as 70 or even above in some cases.

Does Down Syndrome Affect Intelligence? A Look at Cognition

While an average IQ score for an individual with Down syndrome is around 50, or the mental age of an 8- or 9-year-old, some individuals have IQs even higher than 70.

Does Down Syndrome Influence IQ? - medisearch.io

Yes, Down syndrome influences IQ. The average IQ of a young person with Down syndrome is 50, or the mental age of an 8 or 9-year-old, according to a study.

Down Syndrome Average IQ - Why Do they Have Low IQ?

According to some reports, the average IQ for Down syndrome children is around 50 ranging from 30 to 70. Down Syndrome is one of the major intellectual disabilities caused by genetics, but in some cases, people with Down syndrome have recorded 120 IQ scores.

Down Syndrome IQ Levels Explained

In individuals with Down syndrome, IQ levels can vary, but most individuals have some level of intellectual disability, usually in the mild to moderate range. This means that their IQ scores are significantly lower than the average population, equivalent to a mental age of an 8- or 9-year-old child.

Down's syndrome - Henry Spink Foundation

Mosby's Medical, Nursing and Allied Health Dictionary gives an average IQ of between 50 and 60 for Down's syndrome individuals although IQ scores of 120 have been found in some individuals with the syndrome.