Flashing/Flickering of screen and jumping to open programs randomly ...

Flashing/Flickering of screen and jumping to open programs randomly. My laptop intermittently flashes and jumps randomly to any of the open programs. I run Windows 7 32bit and use Office 2010 Professional. Is there any remedy to stop this flashing/flickering? At times it takes more than a couple of minutes to stop this flickering.

Hard drive is full and I don't know why - Microsoft Community

The free space on my hard drive keeps getting less and less even though I'm not installing anything onto it. In-fact I've deleted files and folders to try to increase the free space on the hard drive, but the free space still keeps getting less and less. I've searched through the files and folders etc and there seems to be about 80GB that is being used by the hard drive that I cannot locate ...

Windows 10 Disk maxing out constantly and being hung up and waiting ...

While I am on the computer, the computer is constantly going through some sort of functions, with the light always flickering. The blue wheel is constantly spinning and I am in eternal wait mode. Simple tasks are a nightmare. Also, when I checked the Task manager, the Memory Disk box was highlighted red and maxed up to 99%.

How do you reset the boot drive to another system partition in Windows ...

Question: How do I make my other drive, (which still has my 32-bit Windows 7 system), bootable again without destroying its setup? I presume the single license of the upgrade simply made the my original 32-bit system inaccessible but did not otherwise change any of the data. The 32-bit system and 64-bit systems are on two physically separate drives, so I know the 32-bit system is still intact ...
