Estwing hatchet modification idea... | Bushcraft USA Forums

I was thinking about turning this edge of my hatchet into a draw knife to make it into an even more useful tool and make use of the extra weight of having a full metal handle.... I wouldn't want to grind much as I'd be losing some integrity but would bringing this one side to a chisel edge...

The lowest priced hatchet EVER found then improved

On a weekend trip, I came upon a Harbor Freight and a Menards store. Both had low cost hatchets but the Menards hatchet was the lowest price Ive ever seen...

Adler Rheinland Hatchet, initial impressions - Bushcraft USA Forums

The hatchet also made quick work out of the plum cherry branch lengths. Tried some feather sticking with the cedar , but it isn't quite THAT sharp out of the box. Got some rough feathers and some shavings and chips out of it. I think the blade has potential to make a section sharp enough for feather sticking.

Vaughan Hatchet Expert Help - Bushcraft USA Forums

Picked up a tiny, tiny Vaughan hatchet at a flea market today and was wondering what it was used for and what it might be worth. Appears to be pretty old with a homemade 12" handle and a embossed leather sheath. The head has Vaughan stamped on it but no other markings. The eye is only 1/4"x3/4"...

Hewing Hatchet to Carving Axe -- Hope you like lots of photos

This is a really great idea and result. I have a similar hewing hatchet that I find simply too heavy to use all the time while carving. Maybe I should do something like this too. Did you measure the weight of the new head by any chance? Also did you leave the bevel on the one side only and kept the non bevel on the other side? I've got an old restored Soviet axe that I re-did this summer, it ...

Plumb Boy Scout Hatchet - Pic Heavy | Bushcraft USA Forums

The Plumb hatchet / Western fixed blade knife combos with a single, shared sheath really bring the bucks. I like and occassionally purchase vintage BSA equipment from that era even though I am not as old the stuff I am buying. Things like hatchets, sheath knives, and old packs with BSA logos are just cool to me.

Boy Scout Axe from 1940 - Bushcraft USA Forums

In the '40s & 50s Plumb was the most common Boy Scout hatchet and they are generally very good, well balanced and taking a good edge. The BSA seal was stamped on the head and something like "Official Boy Scout" stamped on the red painted handle.

For sale is this vintage Council Tools El Lobo Hatchet With Custom Leather Sheath! The hatchet was stropped, polished and painted, the handle was flame treated, and the custom leather work for it is brand new!

Hatchet Mod - Bushcraft USA Forums

Not bragging at all because it's far from perfect but I'm happy with how it's progressing. I had a little time on my hands this week because I've been quarantining with my wife who tested positive for covid on Monday. I picked up this hatchet earlier this year thinking I would try to restore it...

Boy Scouts of America hatchets | Bushcraft USA Forums

I got three BSA hatchets in last week. I have been looking for a hatchet that is sized somewhere between my GB Mini and my Wetterlings Small Hunter (15"). What I find interesting is how different the three are. Two are marked Plumb, the other is marked Collins. The head design, thickness and...
