Homemade "Rattle Reel" - iceshanty.com

My buddy showed me his new "rattle reel". He took an old fishing line plastic dispenser put nuts in the open end. Then put a piece of cardboard on the open end so the nuts can't fall out. He then mounted it in his shack above his jig hole. It rattles when the line starts reeling. Logged

Looking into finicky foolers

Looking at picking up a few finicky fooler rod holders/tipups. Specifically to use for perch, catfish, trout, and bass. I love chasing flags, and I'd like to expand my arsenal, so I had a few questions:

Finicky Fooler - iceshanty.com

Hi, my name is Skorpion and I have a gear addiction.... I have a set of 5 finicky foolers. They are a blast to run early and late season, or anytime it's not so cold out that the line on your reel is freezing up after a fish or two. More and more of these warm ice days every year it seems... running strait fluorocarbon can reduce freeze up. I like to run them with small Okuma bait runner ...

Ice Fishing Reels (Not Working )

Ice Fishing Reels (Not Working ) A common problem with cheaper reels is moisture getting into the drag and reel housing which will cause your drag and free spooling action to hesitate or fail. try cleaning out the reels so their dry and apply some thinner lubricant and make sure your drag washers are good and dry.

Genz Stix.....

After returning one, I carefully inspected the reel on its replacement. Several on the ones on the shelf either had a bad spot (you could feel this while cranking it) or the drag didn't sound right when you would twist it.

How to Build a Tip-Up

A traditional ice fishing tip-up is composed of several sub assemblies. First is the frame, which consists of a vertical upright and 2 cross braces. The cross braces suspend the upright in the hole bored in the ice. The upright has a reel, the trip rod and the flag assemblies attached to it. It really is that simple.

Heritage laker tip up storage

Picked up a loring packbasket this season, could easily fit 10 heritage lakers. The liner interior has 5 huge pockets. I also tie the hook up with thick rubber band, similar concept to the velcro straps, just place rubber band in hook, go around the reel and put the other end of the band on the reel handle or wing nut.
