"centennial" vs. "centurial" - describing periods of 100 years relating to 100 years : marking or beginning a century, with the example "the centurial years 1600 and 1700". But there is a word that is widely used to indicate the range of years or centuries covered by an article or book: history.

"a 100" vs "100" - English Language & Usage Stack Exchange

The flow rate increases 100-fold (one hundred-fold) Would be a more idiomatic way of saying this, however, the questioner asks specifically about the original phrasing. The above Ngram search would suggest that a one hundred has always been less frequently used in written language and as such should probably be avoided. Your other suggestion of by one hundred times is definitely better than a ...

How do you say 100,000,000,000,000,000 in words?

37 Wikipedia lists large scale numbers here. As only the 10^x with x being a multiple of 3 get their own names, you read $100,000,000,000,000,000$ as $100 * 10^{18}$, so this is 100 quintillion in American and British English and 100 trillion in most (non-English speaking) other places.

How do you correctly say large numbers

I was taught (and it seems logical to me) that 100.35 is read "one-hundred point three five," 135 is read "one-hundred thirty-five" and to say "one-hundred and thirty-five" should be left for instances where you are speaking of two distinct numbers: 100, and 35

The meaning of 0% and 100% as opposed to other percentages?

If soap A kills 100% and soap B kills 99.99% of bacteria, the remaining amount of bacteria after applying A (0%) is infinitely smaller than the remaining amount of bacteria after applying B (0.01%). Therefore A is much, much better. You can see from these examples that 0.01% gap behaves differently across the percentage scale.

phrase usage - Is "100% correct pronunciation" an understandable ...

'100% correct' is grammatically correct in this context, though the organization of the sentence is a bit atypical for many more formal dialects of English and may be difficult for some people to understand without having to think a bit (I would instead restructure things as suggested at the end

Is it proper to state percentages greater than 100%? [closed]

People often say that percentages greater than 100 make no sense because you can't have more than all of something. This is simply silly and mathematically ignorant. A percentage is just a ratio between two numbers. There are many situations where it is perfectly reasonable for the numerator of a fraction to be greater than the denominator.
